FAQs

Is it okay not to know Arabic while visiting Dubai?

Yes. You can chat in English with residents and emigrants in Dubai. While Arabic is the main language there, English is taught in schools as well. You can find signboards, menus, and even documents written in both Arabic and English. Not knowing Arabic is okay as most of the people there can communicate in English which is perfect for you to ask questions if you need anything.

I don’t want to wear a burkha in Dubai. Is it okay?

If you’re a female tourist visiting Dubai, you don’t have to carry a burka or don’t want to roam around in one, it is cool. All you have to do is to wear something that goes down from your shoulders to your knees. Do carry a scarf with you as it is needed while visiting a mosque or some other religious places. And it is considered respectful when you take off your shoes while visiting these places.
