

Kathmandu, Chitwan, Lumbini And Pokhara Tour - 11 Days

Trip Overview

Traveling is all about wanting to get exposure to natural, cultural, religious, and historical beauty. And what better place than Nepal that gives you a perfect blend of all these experiences that hold on to your heart for a lifetime?

Kathmandu is a world of its own. From legends of the creation of this city to still being the land where the divine power resides, there could not be another city that encapsulates cultural and religious beauty more than this city. This modern city moves with time but does not forget its roots.

Nepal and natural beauty are spontaneous issues. Every mind gets the image of majestic mountains, forests, unbelievable landscapes, rivers, etc, when the name Nepal pops up. Pokhara, blessed with every natural beauty possible, attracts tourists due to its mountain views and lakes. For those wanting to do something adventurous, Pokhara has it all.

If you're more on the forests, animals, and bird-loving side, Chitwan is your place. Visit the national park and if luck favors, you might see some endangered animals like the one-horned rhino with your eyes.

As for Lumbini, we strongly suggest you visit this place yourself to obtain the sense of peace where Lord Buddha took his first steps.

FAQs

Which city is less costly to live in Kathmandu, Chitwan, or Pokhara?

Kathmandu, despite being the capital city is usually the cheapest city to live in. Also, for tourists, it offers modest living and dining options. Chitwan and Lumbini are slightly more expensive because of their natural and cultural importance. Pokhara, a tourist hub, can be very costly in its peak seasons. That said, it all depends on how a traveler chooses to spend their money.

Which has more natural beauty: Pokhara or Chitwan?

It would not do justice to compare the beauty of Pokhara and Chitwan. While Pokhara attracts people due to its visually captivating landscapes, and mountains, Chitwan is rather on the wildlife beauty part. So, each city is beautiful on its own.
